

MAKING
RESEARCH
COUNT

Practice Development Webinar

Rethinking Our Child Protection Enquiries With Learning Disabled and Neurodiverse Children and Young People

Tuesday 19th November 2024
11:00am - 12.30pm (Online)

Sarah Go
University of Bedfordshire

Sarah Go is a registered social worker with many years' experience, who co-chairs the National Working Group on Safeguarding Disabled Children. She is a researcher working on sexual and criminal exploitation and the needs of learning disabled and neurodiverse children and young people with Professor Anita Franklin at Manchester Metropolitan University.

She is also a professional doctoral student at the University of Bedfordshire supervised by Dr Isabelle Brodie and Dr Matthew Ellis.

Communication and seeking children's views is an essential part of child protection enquiries. Practice responses and approaches to this are framed and, in some cases, limited by what is understood by 6th November 2024.

For more information, contact Sarah Go at mrc@beds.ac.uk